CHAIRPERSON'S STATEMENT

It is an honour to share my first report as Chairperson of the MIAF. Firstly, I must register my sincere gratitude to the former leadership, in particular my predecessor Ms. Aisha Deme, the Board, Directorate and partners for laying a solid foundation that enables the MIAF to excel as a truly pan-African organisation with a clear vision and mission rooted in developing the African music sector.

We have a critical role to play in African music, especially now that the global spotlight is on the continent. Yet a majority of our musicians and related professionals lack fundamental knowledge, skills, resources and opportunities to advance their careers.

In the year under review, the MIAF continued to build on its impressive portfolio of online and offline programmes championed by the Music In Africa portal (www.musicinafrica.net) and a wide range of complementary projects, notably the ACCES music conference, artist mobility support via the Music In Africa Connects project and various capacity-building initiatives.

As a woman working in the cultural sector in Senegal, and having travelled extensively across the continent, I fully understand the challenges faced by my peers in the industry, particularly in Africa. This is why I am extremely proud to place an emphasis on the introduction of the Music In Africa Gender@Work programme, which will work specifically on upskilling women from different African countries in 2019, 2020 and 2021.

It is undeniable that funding for arts programmes is particularly constrained in Africa, especially with regard to music. The MIAF continues to make progress in diversifying its funding base, and by developing new revenue models in line with our sustainability plan. We need to remain vigilant in this area; in order to be more sustainable, we have to develop and implement more long-term sustainable programmes that have a real impact in more communities across Africa. I am fully confident in the competence of the MIAF leadership to succeed in this area, both at Board and Directorate level.

Appreciation

In the year under review, the sixth Annual General Meeting appointed a new Board on 15 November 2018. I am pleased and honoured to have been elected to serve as Chairperson of the MIAF Board for the next two years. I wish to emphasise that as the Board, we are committed to use our combined skills, diversity and experience to guide the organisation to much greater heights.

On behalf of the Board, I would like to thank the directorate and all staff under the leadership of Mr. Edington Hatitye for their relentless hard work and commitment to the work of the MIAF. I wish to acknowledge and thank our founding partners, Siemens Stiftung and Goethe-Institut, for their continued support, and lastly, all members of our advisory committees: Human Resources, HR and Risk Management.

Ms. Maimouna Dembélé Chairperson

DIRECTOR'S REPORT

The year under review was a period in which we set out to refine our offering by carefully examining all of our existing programmes, with the key objective to improve the quality of our work and advance our reach and impact, while remaining focused on our financial and sustainability goals.

This also meant thinking more strategically about formulating solutions to long-standing issues in the African music sector such as gender imparity.

Thanks to the immense growth in the year under review, the Music In Africa portal is now the largest information and exchange portal dedicated to African music with over 23 000 African musicians profiled and thousands of educational articles accessible for free in English and French. The portal grew by 130% to an average of 326 000 unique users per month, reaching almost half a million unique monthly users in the last quarter of the year under review. This is directly attributable to adjustments to our content strategy. Our portal now offers more opportunity updates to music professionals than any other platform. In terms of coverage, we extended our research work to Cape Verde, Mauritania, Angola, Burundi, Reunion and Djibouti, reaching a total of 44 African countries.

Through the MIAConnects project we supported musicians from all walks of life in Chad, Mali, Niger, Northern Nigeria, Somalia, Sudan and South Sudan. A total of 147 musicians received grants of up to €2 000 to tour locally, regionally and internationally, 272 aspiring professionals were trained and 11 festivals received funding (up to €5 000) to programme artists from the seven focus countries. The fact that we were able to successfully implement this multifaceted programme shows our readiness and competence to implement complex projects in any country on the continent. This is why we have started exploring the possibility of introducing an inclusive pan-African mobility fund in the near future.

ACCES is now well positioned as one of the leading pan-African music business events on the continent. In the year under review, we took ACCES to Kenya where we offered a dynamic programme to professionals from 41 countries. We continue to listen attentively to the needs of music professionals who attend ACCES and we are relentlessly improving every aspect of the event. As ACCES grows, we are beginning to monetise its various components, and we have started to see positive results, especially with the third edition in Ghana. We will continue to place emphasis on ACCES, both as a vehicle for development in the sector and an income generator for the Foundation.

I am pleased to note that we have secured financial support to reintroduce the Instrument Building and Repair (IBR) programme in South Africa in the 2019-20 fiscal year. This is an important programme that enables us to facilitate the sharing and transfer of skills in indigenous instruments.

In the coming years, the Foundation will face a number of challenges, including building on the substantial gains reported in the past two fiscal years, when we implemented the Music In Africa Connects project, which helped us both financially and in expanding our work to more countries. These gains were indeed substantial and hard won and should not be underestimated. We now have to work on securing more long-term projects. We have started fundraising for a long-term industry intelligence initiative aimed at strengthening capacity for musicians to earn more income from their works. We have secured partial funding and we plan to start the pilot in the next fiscal year.

Appreciation

I want to thank our staff who work extremely hard for the Foundation to be where it is today. I want to thank our Board members for their prudent counsel and the advisory committees for their invaluable contributions to our work. I would also like to thank our founding partners, Siemens Stiftung and Goethe-Institut, for their continued support.

THE MUSIC IN AFRICA PORTAL

The Music In Africa portal is the flagship project of the Foundation. Launched in 2014, Music In Africa is the largest information and exchange online portal offering reliable information about the African music sector.

The portal is available in English and French, reaching millions of music professionals and fans through its tailored content and functionalities that cumulatively present a realistic and authoritative picture of the African music sector and its many facets.

In addition to offering comprehensive content, Music In Africa provides a free service to the sector by helping practitioners shape professional digital profiles while enabling them to promote their work to a wider audience on the continent and beyond. To date, about 24 000 profiles of African music professionals have been created on the portal, and 150 000 songs synched on these profiles are promoted to about 500 000 people every month.

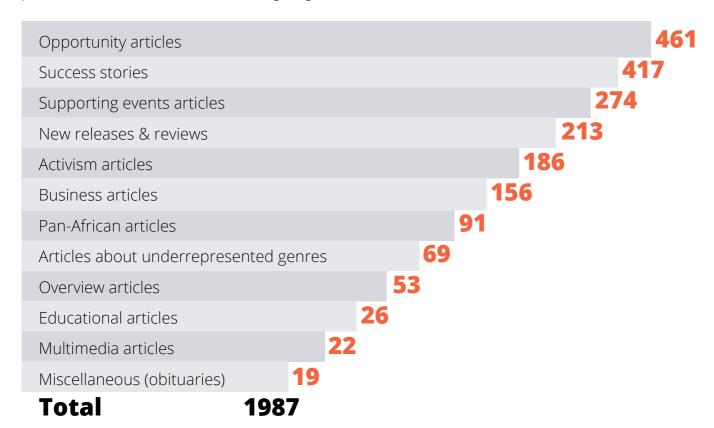

A complex online organism

Being the multifarious portal that it is, Music In Africa is highly innovative, current and engaging with the help of an editorial team working from our offices in South Africa, Nigeria, Senegal, Kenya and the DRC. Each office is headed by a regional editor who works with a cumulative pool of more than 100 contributors who provide the portal with relevant information, updates and research. To date, the Music In Africa portal has published well over 600 research articles covering the music scenes in 44 countries, as we get closer to our aim to reach the entire continent by 2022.

The portal is composed of distinct sections, including Artists and Industry where users can search for and connect with music professionals from across the continent such as producers, record labels, venue owners, festival organisers, managers, digital distributors, publishers and music archives, among many others. The portal's Magazine section offers the latest News, Features, Reviews and event information (Gig Guide) to keep those working in the industry abreast of what is happening in their country and on the continent. The Knowledge section, on the other hand, is dedicated to tutorials, elucidative articles and research about Africa's many music scenes. Finally, the portal's Music section, essentially a streaming platform, features hundreds of thousands of tracks from upcoming and established musicians on the continent and in the diaspora.

Clear content vision

At Music In Africa we have strategised our content offering in line with the vision of the Foundation, which places emphasis on supporting music creators. In doing so we have identified a number of content categories across our sections; each of our published articles is categorised according to a central theme, or angle. In the year under review, the Music In Africa portal published close to 2 000 articles in the following categories:

Descriptions

- Opportunity articles aid music professionals to find new opportunities such as residencies, training and collaborations.
- Success stories share the success of artists in terms of awards, sales, newly signed record/distribution deals etc
- Supporting events articles preview important events on the African music industry calendar.
- New releases & reviews promote the latest African music/video releases and events.
- Activism articles promote activism, as well as the players trying to make a difference in the interest of musicians and the sector as a whole.
- Business/industry articles report on the inner workings of the African music industry.

- Pan-African articles promote pan-Africanism and its related values. For example, articles on collaborations between artists and arts organisations, and the desire for Africans to work towards an all-inclusive creative space.
- Articles about underrepresented genres promote musical genres that are underreported in other media, such as traditional and experimental music.
- Overview articles focus on a broad range of serious topics, including African music market structures, history, instruments and genres as well as the state of the media, recording, publishing and distribution industries, etc.
- Educational articles provide clarification on complex topics such as intellectual property, royalties, and the laws that govern these spheres.
- Multimedia articles were formally introduced in April 2019 and are mainly composed of video and audio content.

Premium Exposure Plan

In the year under review, we introduced the Music In Africa Premium Exposure Plan, which is a service provided to music creators who wish to effectively promote their music, events, services or any other exciting music projects to a much wider audience in Africa and beyond.

Music In Africa is the official EPK platform for Sauti za Busara Festival

In the year under review, we entered into a partnership with Sauti za Busara – one of Africa's biggest music festivals. The partnership provides musicians with the ideal platform to create electronic press kits (EPKs) when applying to perform at the festival. The benefit for artists is that they receive free support from us to develop their professional EPKs, which get reviewed by the festival's curators during the selection process. This is a much-needed service, as most artists are still struggling to submit professional materials when applying for various opportunities. We plan to develop this model further with a view to partner with more festivals in the near future.

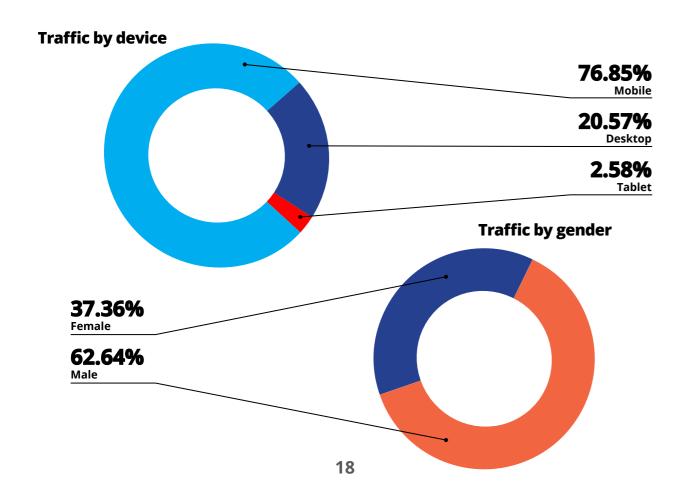

Traffic and reach

Traffic on the portal increased significantly. Unique users increased by 130.94% from 141 373 to 326 493 (monthly average). The amount of registered profiles in our database increased by 29.09% to reach 23 889 from 18 505 in the previous year. A significant increase was recorded in the number of newsletter subscribers, from 25 000 last year to 40 000 in the year under review.

Kalin Pashaliev Editor-in-chief

The year under review has been an exciting and eventful one for Music In Arica's editorial department. We have seen unprecedented growth in traffic and reach, as well as heightened curiosity in the work we do from the various sectors in the industry. We can now safely say that we are the most reliable music information portal on the continent, with increased interest coming in from non-African countries such as the US, where our content is used as a primary source to inform media practitioners and industry players about the activities of the African music industry. The Foundation's ACCES conference, as well as other offline activities, can be credited for bringing about much-needed brand awareness, making the symbiosis between our online and offline work key to long-term success. We have also seen astounding growth in the number of musicians creating Music In Africa profiles, evidence that many players on the continent find it advantageous to be a part of our ever-growing community. Although we've experienced a few challenges, particularly with regard to fully completing Phase 6 of our coverage strategy, we are confident that we will finish our coverage of the continent by 2022.

Patricia Yumba

French editor

Our Phase 6 countries, as the French editorial department, were Mauritania, Cape Verde, Djibouti and Reunion. It was difficult to find knowledgeable and skilled writers to provide us with quality Overviews for these countries, especially Djibouti. However, thanks to a solid network of writers that we have developed throughout the past few years, we have now found a number of reliable contributors. Following a content strategy workshop in Johannesburg, we also advanced our multimedia content strategy. This type of content is performing very well, both on the portal and on social media. Partnering with events across the region, via our Dakar and Kinshasa offices, is also steadily contributing to our growth and brand awareness. A testament to our growing influence, our regional editors are being frequently invited to take part in industry discussions in various countries across Francophone Africa. One partnership worth mentioning is our weekly gig guide with Radio France Internationale (RFI), a prominent French radio station with an estimated audience of 34.5 million listeners a week.

North African coverage and physical presence

Morocco will be Music In Africa's first North African country to be covered in the next reporting period. This is in line with the Foundation's plans to expand our footprint to North Africa with the launch of our first satellite office in the region. Content for the North African region will be produced in English and French after an internal feasibility study found that the introduction of Arabic to the Music In Africa portal would not be practically achievable.

Challenges

As Music In Africa continues with its coverage of African countries with a view to cover the entire continent by 2022 in terms of commissioned research, a number of expected and unexpected challenges have been experienced, particularly in smaller countries with underdeveloped music and media industries, as well as countries where English and French are not spoken, the prime examples being Mozambique and Angola. Even in instances where French is an official language, such as Djibouti, our editors have found it enduringly challenging to find media practitioners who can be confidently commissioned to provide errorfree and unbiased information about the music scenes in their countries. There are also persistent issues like conflict and political instability that make it difficult, and often dangerous, for potential contributors to come forward to offer their services, despite the many public application calls Music In Africa makes to uncover individuals with musical knowledge and journalistic acumen. Additionally, some countries experience infrastructural challenges, such as a lack of access to the internet and costly internet rates, which make it difficult for our contributors to do their work efficiently.

Solutions

Notwithstanding the challenges we are experiencing, Music In Africa's editorial team is making progress in the countries where coverage may seem impossible. We are always in contact with our network of partners trying to discover contributors who can provide high-quality content for the portal. This has proved to be a successful strategy, although it sometimes means that our coverage deadlines need to be extended. We are also unafraid to keep chipping away at the problem by carrying over countries into the next coverage phase until such countries have been completed.

THE MUSIC IN AFRICA HONORARY AWARD

The annual Music In Africa Honorary Award is given to outstanding African musicians in recognition of the contributions they have made to their home country's industry and that of Africa as a whole. Apart from releasing songs that have touched millions of people, these musicians have also made an enduring and profound difference to their communities by devoting time and energy in a constructive and meaningful way, and by forging paths of leadership for other music professionals to follow.

2019 RECIPIENTS

BO TAYLOR (GHANA)

With a music career spanning more than six decades, Ebo Taylor is a significant figure in the Ghanaian music scene. He is known for playing a pivotal role in shaping highlife groups the Stargazers and the Broadway Dance Band in the late 1950s. Taylor made an impact outside Ghana, especially in 1962 when he took his Black Star Highlife Band to London where he collaborated with legendary Afrobeat bandleader Fela Kuti and other African musicians. Taylor's last album 'Appia Kwa Bridge' was released under Strut Records in 2012. He continues to influence many corners of the sector, both as a musician and mentor.

BIBIE BREW (GHANA)

The Music In Africa Honorary Award pays tribute to Bibie Brew's illustrious work as a music mentor and an advocate for positive change in the creative sector, in addition to a music career that produced one of Africa's biggest global hits. A daughter of a traveling diplomat, Bibie Brew earned success following the release of the French song 'Tout Doucement' in 1985. The song was produced by renowned French composer Jean-Paul Dréau. It was certified gold and climbed to second place on the French charts. Other songs that have defined her career include 'J'veux pas J'savoir' and 'Les femmes reviennent et les hommes s'en vont'. She has released six albums, including 'Bibie' (1985), 'Regards' (1986), 'Tendress'moi' (1988), 'La P'tite Black' (1990), 'Femme d'ici ou d'ailleurs' (1992) and 'Sereine' (2003).

2018 RECIPIENT

2017 RECIPIENT

Every year up to 10 nominations of active and accomplished music professionals are submitted by the Music In Africa Foundation's Directorate to a dedicated Curation Committee that is responsible for making preliminary recommendations. The recommendations are submitted and approved by the Foundation's Management Board, which comprises professionals from different countries.

OFFLINE PROJECTS

2018-19 was another strong year for projects as we continued to build on the success of previous years. Three projects stood out for us, namely the Music In Africa Conference for Collaborations, Exchanges and Showcases (ACCES) and the Music In Africa Connects (MIAConnects) project, which ended in December 2018 after a two-year implementation period.

More significantly, the year under review saw the introduction of a new three-year training programme for women called Music In Africa Gender@Work. This project could not have come at a better time. Gender disparity in the African music industry continues to grow at an alarming rate and more initiatives are needed to offer opportunities to women who are underrepresented in almost all forms of musical life on the continent.

Additionally, we continued to develop our fundraising strategy while developing new project concepts. This part of our work is tremendously important as we seek to deliver efficiently on our objectives and sustainability goals.

INTRODUCING THE MUSIC IN AFRICA GENDER@WORK PROGRAMME

Music In Africa Gender@Work is a three-year training programme aimed at upskilling and increasing the participation of female professionals in the African music sector. We launched this programme in April 2019, marking the beginning of a more concerted effort by the Foundation to support the participation and inclusion of women in all facets of its programmes and the music sector in Africa as a whole.

Over the three years, the programme will aim to address gender imbalances in the sector through training, lobbying, facilitating knowledge exchange and dialogues that foster the interest of women. As a way to provide immersion experiences for trainees, the programme is implemented a week before ACCES and gives participants a broader learning opportunity and access to industry leaders. This also means that we are able to implement the Gender@Work learning course in a different African country every year.

The broader objectives of the programme are to:

- Provide industry training for women on critical music industry skills, focusing on:
 - o Stage management
 - o Electronic music production and recording
 - o Music business management
 - o Technical knowledge
- Provide an opportunity for both professional and aspiring women to benefit from the Music In Africa network and its broad range of activities in 2019, 2020 and 2021.
- Provide a solution-based platform in the form of a round table at ACCES with a view to identify challenges, discuss opportunities and lobby for the interests of female practitioners.
- Offer participants the opportunity to benefit from programmes offered by MIAF's partners.
- Increase access to educational materials.

- Integrate participants in the broader ACCES programme to maximise experience and exposure to the industry.
- Record and present training materials on www.musicinafrica.net, including, but not limited to, tutorials, templates and other best-practice materials.
- Communicate women-based themes that support the key messages of the programme.

MAIN TRAINING ACTIVITIES

- 1. Training in first country (Ghana): In the first year, participants will be trained on all aspects of stage management by a team of experienced stage managers from 24 to 30 November 2019. The programme will offer intensive classroom training as well as practical, hands-on guidance where participants will be given the opportunity to manage various aspects of the ACCES performance programme.
- 2. Training in second country: The second training iteration will take place at ACCES 2020 when the programme will diversify its course to include music production lessons and training on other music business topics. A round-table platform will also be introduced to coincide with the ACCES programme.
- 3. Training in third country: The third training iteration will take place at ACCES 2021 in a different country, offering an advanced course.

CONCLUSION OF THE MUSIC IN AFRICA CONNECTS PROJECT

In the year under review, we concluded implementation of the Music In Africa Connects (MIAConnects) project, which was started in 2017. The successful implementation of this multifaceted project is testament to our ability to deliver complex social projects of all shapes and sizes, even in the most challenging locations on the continent.

The MIAConnects project had an ambitious goal to support music professionals in countries affected by conflict, namely Chad, Mali, Niger, Nigeria (North), Somalia, Sudan and South Sudan, for two years between 2017 and 2018.

Working with five strategic implementation partners in Somalia, Chad, Sudan, Nigeria and Niger, the project offered mobility support to musicians to tour locally and regionally. Financial support was also given to music festivals in different countries to programme and provide mobility and exposure to artists whose movement and growth has been significantly limited by ongoing restrictions in their own countries. The project established capacity-building workshops in Mali, Somalia, Nigeria, Chad and Sudan, providing much-needed training and upskilling to emerging music professionals in these countries. An international component of the project resulted in a rich cultural and creative exchange tour of a Malian band that performed and conducted workshops in Germany in 2018.

In addition to facilitating the rapid mobility of artists in the focus countries, the project offered talent discovery and career-development opportunities to beneficiaries at ACCES and partner events, which provided a platform for musicians and professionals from the focus countries to showcase their music and sectors, and to establish new partnerships with other professionals and businesses from the rest of the continent and beyond.

Extensive research conducted by the project in the focus countries led to the discovery of key trends, opportunities and challenges, while raising awareness of the music scenes in the countries and providing work opportunities to researchers and journalists. This process has the potential to improve the standard and quality of music journalism in the focus countries, as the researchers and writers have to go through Music In Africa's rigorous quality control and best-practice processes.

The extension of the programme to support festivals in different parts of the continent by providing capacity to diversify their programming with artists from the focus countries goes a long way in facilitating stronger connections and touring opportunities for musicians in these countries. Additionally, this enriches the live music sector on the continent and supports the sustainability of the few festivals that exist.

More importantly, this project has given the MIAF muchneeded impetus and stability to venture into artist mobility support, which is crucial in the development of the sector and the promotion of cultural expressions on the continent.

RETURN OF THE INSTRUMENT BUILDING AND REPAIR PROGRAMME

The Instrument Building and Repair (IBR) programme, which we implemented in South Africa in 2016, will begin in 2020, thanks to a successful fundraising campaign in the year under review.

IBR is an important programme aimed at professionalising instrument making and repair in Africa, especially in relation to indigenous African instruments. The project has allowed the Foundation to train young people to make instruments, while providing online tutorials to a wider audience across the continent. The programme also includes performances and public dialogues around African instruments.

Twenty-five instrument makers from around South Africa and other African countries will participate in the programme, which offers a carefully curated course involving theory, practical learning and performance. In addition to receiving a certificate of participation, each trainee will leave the workshop with all the instruments they will have made. The participants will also receive online tutorial materials developed by experts to enable them to learn further and train others in their respective communities.

How to participate

A call for applications will be announced on the Music In Africa website in February 2020. A total of 25 applicants will be selected.

Objectives of the programme

- o To develop awareness of instrument makers in Africa with a view to promote their work to a wider national, regional and global audience.
- o To facilitate the sharing and transfer of skills in indigenous instruments.
- To encourage the formalisation and professionalisation of instrument making and repair in Africa, especially in relation to indigenous instruments.
- o To help instrument makers develop their careers.
- o To foster the rapid monetisation and sustainable development of instrument making and repair in Africa.
- o To promote constant exchange of ideas, expertise, experiences and know-how among instrument makers in Africa.
- o To facilitate the identification of existing gaps in the field with a view to contribute solutions.
- o To facilitate the intergenerational transfer of knowledge and skills in indigenous instruments.

ACCES

The Music In Africa Conference for Collaborations, Exchange and Showcases, or simply ACCES, is the ideal international platform for music industry players from across Africa to exchange ideas, discover new talent and accelerate the shaping of a vibrant music sector on the continent. Board policies

More importantly, Board members are informed of their fiduciary duty to act in the best interests of the Foundation at all times. All board members declare any interests that might conflict with their positions on the Board.

Board terms

Elected members serve for a period of two (2) years and step down as members at the AGM taking place in the second year of their membership, but are eligible for reelection, provided that no member of the Board shall serve for longer than six (6) years.

ADVISORY COMMITTEES

The Board delegates some of its roles to four advisory committees: the Education and Content Committee, the Human Resources Committee, the Membership Committee and the Risk Management Committee.

• Human Resources Committee

The Human Resources Committee has an oversight responsibility to monitor and assess the human resource policies of the Foundation, with the view to enable the Foundation to attract, motivate and retain competent executive personnel required to meet its business and strategic objectives.

• Membership Committee

The overall role of the Membership Committee is to oversee the formulation and implementation of membership strategies and policy, while ensuring that membership processes adhere to the regulations stipulated in the Constitution of the Foundation.

• Risk Management Committee

The overall purpose of the Risk Management Committee is to acquire the widest view possible of potential risks to the Foundation and to recommend solutions to identified risks, with a view to ensure that the Foundation's risks are effectively managed.

Changes on advisory committees

The Board appointed new committees in the year under review, following a public call inviting interested professionals to apply for available positions.

This process also allowed the Board to streamline our advisory committees, with a view to increase efficiency while also bringing in new ideas and energy to our fiduciary structures.

The appointed members are:

Unknown risks

The Risk Management Committee is of the view that irrespective of a formal and structured approach to risk identification and management, some risks to the Foundation may be presently unknown. Certain risks may be beyond the control of management and might affect the overall delivery of the Foundation's objectives, whereas other risks, currently regarded as immaterial, may become material. An internal control framework is important to ensure that compliance with internal policies and procedures and external regulatory requirements is achieved. The Foundation's risk evaluation and review will in future include a review of internal controls, including a review of policies and procedures, and verification of adherence to and the relevance of such policies and procedures. It is believed that audit, risk and quality control functions facilitate in the monitoring of the system of internal control.

The MIAF is a compliant member of the Internet Service Providers' Association (ISPA). ISPA is a recognised South African industry representative body (IRB) in terms of Section 71 of South Africa's Electronic Communications and Transactions Act (Act 25 of 2002). This recognition gives the MIAF special recognition and limited liability for Internet content, while enforcing the MIAF to conform to a set of regulations in a prescribed code of conduct (https://ispa.org.za/code-of-conduct/). Membership to ISPA means that the MIAF gives ISPA a responsibility of accepting and mediating take-down notifications that may be brought against the portal.

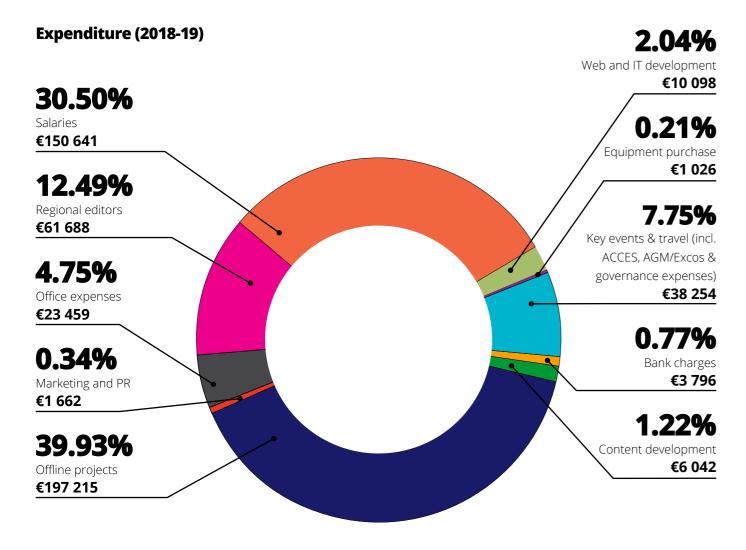

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS DIRECTOR'S REPORT TO THE MEMBERS

We have the pleasure in submitting the audited financial statements for the year ending 30 June 2019.

Donations

The amount raised from grants and donations decreased to €435 140 from €638 130 in the previous year. This was an expected change occasioned by the conclusion of the Music In Africa Connects project, which increased our projects income considerably in the past two fiscal years. The conclusion of every project is followed by considerable reporting, evaluation and admin processes. It is important for the organisation to employ a measured approach with regard to the uptake of big projects. This change does not affect the operations of the organisation. We expect our donations and grants income to increase steadily in the next fiscal year when we undertake new projects.

Members' attention is further drawn to a distinction between recurring and non-recurring grants and donations (note 1.5 on page 55). Recurring grants and donations refer to recurrent income from the founding partners Goethe-Institut and Siemens Stiftung while non-recurring donations refer to income from intermittent funders. Funds for the Music In Africa Connects project fall under non-recurring grants and donations and occasion significant changes in total revenue.

Sustainability

Other income, including ACCES revenue, advertising sales and project management fees increased to €50 485 from €45 557. ACCES revenue amounted to €27 717 – a considerable increase from the previous year. Advertising sales decreased to €6 994 from €18 233, due to our strategy to focus on higher revenue-generating opportunities presented by ACCES. Project management fees declined to €14 890 from €24 354 in the previous year. This is attributed to conclusion of the Music In Africa Connects project.

Key events & travel

Our direct spend on key events and travel, including ACCES and the AGM, decreased to €38 254 from €64 554 in the previous year. This is due to additional projects and grants that contribute to various event costs, reducing our contributions on events.

Office expenses

Office expenses decreased to €23 459 from €45 325 in the previous year, as half of the costs were allocated to the Music In Africa Connects project. The average office costs of the MIAF average €40 000 annually. Projects are required to contribute to office costs, in line with our sustainability plan.

Salary expenses

Salary costs increased slightly to €150 641 from €142 921 in the previous year. For the purpose of this report, salary costs for specific projects are covered and included in project costs.

Content development

Content development costs increased slightly from € 4 813 last year to € 6 042 in the year under review.

Regional editors

Regional editors' costs decreased slightly from €54 004 in the 2017-18 fiscal year to €41 288 last year as offline projects contributed to regional content development costs. With the conclusion of the Music In Africa Connects project ending in 2018, regional costs return to their normal range of €61 000. We expect this figure to increase slightly in the next fiscal year when we start operations in North Africa with the appointment of a regional editor in Morocco.

Marketing costs

We had a considerable reduction in marketing costs from €6 147 to €1 662. Our marketing spend was initially much higher in the first years to support the launch of our portal. As the website grows organically, we are strategically cutting down on paid advertising.

Offline projects

The biggest change is seen in our expenses on offline projects, which decreased from €366 856 to €197 552 as we concluded the Music In Africa Connects project. This movement is in line with our hybrid business model, which is rooted on developing, fundraising and implementing projects. Going forward, we expect to see further growth in grants revenue to support various projects that are being fundraised for. The Gender@Work project started in the fourth quarter of the last fiscal year. There will be a sharp increase on this line item next year, as well as in costs for the Instrument Building and Repair project, which is scheduled for implementation in the 2019-20 fiscal year.

Fixed assets

Total assets decreased slightly to €242 757 from €282 000 in the previous year. This is due to the amortisation of our intangible assets. A breakdown of the amortisation is provided on pages 56 and 57.

Intangible contributions

Goethe-Institut

Goethe-Institut consistently contributes to the Foundation with its longtime partnerships, network and appreciation within the cultural sector on the continent. Goethe-Institut supports the Foundation through its worldwide network, contacts and communication systems. It also provides support for the local running costs of the infrastructure in Johannesburg. Rent, administration, personnel and running costs, including Internet and communication expenses, are estimated at €40 000 for the year under review.

Siemens Stiftung

Siemens Stiftung supports the Foundation through its worldwide network, global communications, marketing activities and by staging events. Intangible contributions for the year under review are estimated at €50 000

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS DIRECTORATE'S RESPONSIBILITIES AND APPROVAL

The Directorate is required by the Constitution to maintain adequate accounting records and is responsible for the content and integrity of the Annual Financial Statements and related financial information included in this report. It is their responsibility to ensure that the annual financial statements fairly present the state of affairs of the Foundation as at the end of the financial year and the results of its operations and cash flows for the period then ended, in conformity with the Foundation's accounting policies. The external auditor's is engaged to express an independent opinion on the annual financial statements.

The Annual Financial Statements are prepared in accordance with the Foundation's accounting policies and are based upon appropriate accounting policies consistently applied and supported by reasonable and prudent judgements and estimates.

The Directorate acknowledge that they are ultimately responsible for the system of internal financial control established by the Foundation and place considerable importance on maintaining a strong control environment. To enable the directorate to meet these responsibilities, they set standards for internal control aimed at reducing the risk of error or loss in a cost-effective manner. The standards include the proper delegation of responsibilities within a clearly defined framework, effective accounting procedures and adequate segregation of duties to ensure an acceptable level of risk. These controls are monitored throughout the Foundation and all employees are required to maintain the highest ethical standards in ensuring the Foundation's business is conducted in a manner that in all reasonable circumstances is above reproach.

The focus of risk management in the Foundation is on identifying, assessing, managing and monitoring all known forms of risk across the Foundation. While operating risk cannot be fully eliminated, the foundation endeavours to minimise it by ensuring that appropriate infrastructure, controls, systems and ethical behaviour are applied and managed within predetermined procedures and constraints.

Jae X

Mr. Edington Hatitye
Director

The management board are of the opinion, based on the information and explanations given by management, that the system of internal control provides reasonable assurance that the financial records may be relied on for the preparation of the annual financial statements. However, any system of internal financial control can provide only reasonable, and not absolute, assurance against material misstatement or loss.

The management board have reviewed the Foundation's cash flow forecast for the year to 30 June 2020 and in the light of this review and the current financial position, they are satisfied that the Foundation has or has access to adequate resources to continue in operational existence for the foreseeable future.

The external auditors are responsible for independently auditing and reporting on the Foundation's annual financial statements. The annual financial statements have been examined by the Foundation's external auditors and their report is presented on page 49.

The annual financial statements set out on pages 50 to 59, which have been prepared on the going concern basis, were approved by the Directorate on 2 October 2019 and were signed on its behalf by:

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT TO THE MEMBERS OF THE MUSIC IN AFRICA FOUNDATION

To the members

We have audited the annual financial statements of Music In Africa Foundation set out on pages 50 to 59, which comprise the statement of financial position as at 30 June 2019, and the statement of comprehensive income, statement of changes in equity and statement of cash flows for the year then ended, and notes to the annual financial statements, including a summary of significant accounting policies.

Unqualified opinion

In our opinion, the annual financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Music In Africa Foundation as at 30 June 2019, and its financial performance and cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standard for Small and Medium-sized Entities and the requirements of the Constitution.

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the annual financial statements section of our report. We are independent of the Foundation in accordance with the Independent Regulatory Board for Auditors Code of Professional Conduct for Registered Auditors (IRBA Code) and other independence requirements applicable to performing audits of annual financial statements in South Africa. We have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with the IRBA Code and in accordance with other ethical requirements applicable to performing audits in South Africa. The IRBA Code is consistent with the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (Parts A and B). We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Emphasis of matter

We draw attention to Note 12 to the annual financial statements, the Foundation needs on going donor support if it is to continue operations. These financial statements have been prepared on the basis of accounting practices applicable to a going concern which assumes that the Foundation will generate sufficient funds by way of grants from donors to continue funding its activities in the ensuring year. Accordingly they do not include any adjustments, relating to the recoverability and classification of assets or to the amounts and classification of liabilities that would be necessary if the Foundation were unable to continue as a going concern.

Responsibilities of the directors for the annual financial statements

The Directorate are responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the annual financial statements in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standard for Small and Medium-sized Entities and the requirements of the Constitution, and for such internal control as the directorate determine is necessary to enable the preparation of annual financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error. In preparing the annual financial statements, the Directorate are responsible for assessing the Foundation's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the Directorate either intend to liquidate the Foundation or to cease operations, or have no realistic alternative but to do so.

ACCOUNTING POLICIES FOR THE YEAR ENDED 30 JUNE 2019

1. Presentation of annual financial statements

The annual financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the foundation's accounting policies, and the Constitution. The annual financial statements have been prepared on the historical cost basis, and incorporate the principal accounting policies set out below. They are presented in Euro and South Africa Rand.

These accounting policies are consistent with the previous period.

1.1 Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment are tangible items that are held for use in the production or supply of goods or services, or for rental to others or for administrative purposes; and are expected to be used during more than one period.

Property, plant and equipment is carried at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses.

Cost include costs incurred initially to acquire or construct an item of property, plant and equipment and costs incurred subsequently to add to, replace part of, or service it. If a replacement cost is recognised in the carrying amount of an item of property, plant and equipment, the carrying amount of the replaced part is derecognised.

Depreciation charge for each period is recognised in the equipment fund.

Depreciation is provided using the straight-line method to write down the cost, less estimated residual value over the useful life of the property, plant and equipment as follows:

Item	Depreciation method	Average useful life
Office equipment	Straight line	3 Years
IT equipment	Straight line	5 Years

The residual value, depreciation method and useful life of each asset are reviewed only where there is an indication that there has been a significant change from the previous estimate.

1.2 Intangible assets

Intangible assets with definite useful lives have been recognised at cost less accumulated amortisation.

Amortisation is provided to write down the intangible assets, on a straight-line basis, as follows:

Item	Useful life
Computer software, internally generated	10 years

1.3 Financial instruments

Financial instruments at amortised cost

These include loans, trade receivables and trade payables. Those debt instruments which meet the criteria in section 11.8(b) of the standard, are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the effective interest method. Debt instruments which are classified as current assets or current liabilities are measured at the undiscounted amount of the cash expected to be received or paid, unless the arrangement effectively constitutes a financing transaction.

At each reporting date, the carrying amounts of assets held in this category are reviewed to determine whether there is any objective evidence of impairment. If there is objective evidence, the recoverable amount is estimated and compared with the carrying amount. If the estimated recoverable amount is lower, the carrying amount is reduced to its estimated recoverable amount, and an impairment loss is recognised immediately in profit or loss.

Financial instruments at cost

Commitments to receive a loan are measured at cost less impairment.

Equity instruments that are not publicly traded and whose fair value cannot otherwise be measured reliably are measured at cost less impairment.

1.4 Employee benefits

Short-term employee benefits

The cost of short-term employee benefits, (those payable within 12 months after the service is rendered, such as leave pay and sick leave, bonuses, and non-monetary benefits such as medical care), are recognised in the period in which the service is rendered and are not discounted.

1.5 Revenue

Grant revenue is recognised to the extent that the foundation is entitled to the funding for the financial period concerned and has rendered services under an agreement, provided that the amount of revenue can be measured reliably and it is probable that economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the foundation. Revenue is measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable.

A distinction in income is made between recurring and non-recurring grants and donations.

	20	19	2018
	€	ZAR	€	ZAR
Recurring grants and donations	314 878	5 004 653	317 280	5 391 690
Non-recurring grants and donations	138 497	2 213 522	703 732	6 200 133

Interest is recognised, in profit or loss as and when receivable. Donations, membership and other income is brought to account as and when received.

1.6 Foreign exchange

Foreign currency transactions

Grant and donations income has been converted at the spot rate on the date of receipt.

Other income and expenditure, has been converted as the average exchange rate for each month.

1.7 Equipment Fund

In order that operating reserves reflect assets available to the operations of the organisation, an equipment fund is maintained to separate out the funding of such assets.

The mechanism whereby this fund in maintained at a value equal to the carrying value of such assets in the statement of financial position is that an amount equal to the cost of assets acquired be charged against operation income each year and credited to the fund.

Depreciation, and profits and losses on disposal are adjusting annually against the fund.

12. Going concern

The existence of the foundation is dependent on the continued support of it's donors, by way of grants and donations. Should the grants and donations be withdrawn it is highly unlikely that the foundation will be able to continue as a going concern. The foundation is aware of this risk and has started implementing a revenue generation strategy on it's portal.
